Basic Concept Rationales:

- Who is the target audience(s)? What will they look for in your site?
- What is the main idea behind your site?
- What is the graphical style you are going for?
- Why did you choose this style to match your concept?

1. Potential employers and others interested in setting up personal websites make up the website's target audience. People will look for a website that is both attractive and useful. They'll be most interested in seeing the projects I've made and the variety of skills I've displayed in my portfolio.

2. The main goal of the landing page was to highlight my background and provide a sample of the work I have done.

3. My objective was to keep a developer-like minimalism approach without becoming overly elaborate or closely following current design trends. My main focus was on improving the user experience and making sure the website worked properly..

4. This design makes for a better user experience and fits in well with my personal brand. The website focuses mostly on demonstrating my professionalism and web development expertise. Also, I have added some elements that can catch the eye of potential recruiters.
